

SAP consulting company itelligence builds construction express management for SAP Better management with flexible and adjustable cockpits

Bielefeld, July 11, 2007 – Together with SAP, the IT full-service provider for SAP, itelligence, has developed add-ons, so-called cockpits, for the manufacturing and automotive industries. Overall, itelligence is providing three cockpits for buying, production and sales. They have management and optical traffic light functions which can be defined in a flexible fashion. The three cockpits can be integrated in an uncomplicated fashion into existing SAP systems and the industry-specific itelligence it.manufacturing and it.automotive.

With the cockpits' high flexibility and adaptability, cockpit users benefit primarily from being able to define their own contents and links so as then to operate with customized lists. These functions range from processing master data, copying necessary additional master data to processing vouchers. The Sales Cockpit contains additional CRM functions and Opportunity Management.

Berthold Vossman, Market Team Leader Manufacturing and High-Tech: "We have created an important instrument for individual, rapid deployment of SAP, creating a new level of transparency in deployment and in the day-to-day work with SAP." The three cockpits, each for approximately EUR 7500, are installed locally by the itelligence SAP consultants.
