

SAP consultancy itelligence: Win one of five iPods Nano

it's your game! – score the decisive goal!

Bielefeld, April 20, 2006 – The time has come. World Cup football fever has broken out. Soon we will all be at the edge of our seats with each goal. If you do not want to be just a spectator, there is now the chance to be a scorer and score the decisive penalty. The online fun game “it's your game!” itelligence, the IT full-service provider in the SAP environment, allows you to do just this. The highlight: challenges can be made!

Two players can play against each other interactively over the Internet. Each player plays goalkeeper and attacker. The goal is divided into six sections in which the ball can land – if the goalkeeper does not manage to save at the last second. But whether or not the ball can be stopped along its route cannot be predicted for the dexterity and skills of real people are pitted against each other. It calls for strong nerves. The winner is the one who scores the most points.

The game “it's your game!” with its attractive, clear optics invites participation and the attackers are accompanied with appropriate commentary. Top players can write their names in the high score list. At the end of the game, five iPods Nano winners will be selected by draw. This is a real game for a break with chances to win.

Torsten Scholz, Marketing Director at itelligence: “This online game will whet people's appetites for the upcoming World Cup. We invite everyone to test their football talent at www.its-your-game.com”.
