

itelligence academy presents new training catalogue for the first half of 2003

Bielefeld, 12, 05, 2002 – itelligence AG has released the new training catalogue of its academy for the first half of 2003. The extensive academy program comprises a total of 182 practice-oriented software training courses for different target groups, ranging from seminars for SAP users - from beginners to key users - to programming courses for SAP applications and JAVA, to highly specialized information events for system administrators. In addition, the range of training courses offered includes Lotus Notes, company network and software development seminars, interface solutions in SAP, modifications and SAP extensions, as well as SD integration CO/MM/FI. These new courses were added to the academy program to cater to the special requirements of project teams and consultants involved in complex software projects.

The itelligence academy located at the company's building in Bielefeld, Königsbreede 1 has six seminar rooms with a total of 43 training places, each equipped with a networked computer workstation. The number of participants for the individual training courses is limited to 16 in order to provide an effective learning atmosphere. Mainly attended by employees from different companies, the courses are held by didactically trained consultants with many years of practical experience. As a result, technical innovations and practical knowledge gained from current customer projects are brought directly to the classroom. In addition to open seminars, the itelligence academy will also arrange individual training program at customer sites.

The catalogue can be ordered via the Internet at www.itelligence.de, under the German menu item "Seminars", you can also view a list of seminars and register for seminars. Alternatively, you can send an e-mail to: academy@itelligence.de.
